

Tea for Harmony: Yaji Cultural Salon²¹, a global event that promotes China's tea culture, but it is not the single aim of this project. The main reason why this event is held around the world includes giving tea a greater role in enhancing friendly dialogues and mutual learning between civilizations²². As we have read before in the article the yaji cultural salons themed on Tea of Harmony will be held in 41 countries over the world. From my point of view, this fact gives us a reason to think that this project is really important for all society of the world. I must say that I believe Russian traditions such as, for example, playing the balalaikas or cooking some traditional dishes that belong to the Russian cuisine like pirozhki, different soups and another traditional Russian food can also promote our culture and history. I clearly understand that knowledge of traditions and culture can become the basis of friendship between China and Russia.

Firstly, to my mind, if Russia starts organising such events like event launched in Beijing²³ it will attract many tourists from China to visit Russia and know more information and facts about our country.

Secondly, if Russian and Chinese people know traditions and culture of both countries

They will share the same set of values.
So, Russian and Chinese diplomats will see eye to eye in politics.

To sum up, I would like to say that I believe ~~that~~ understanding of traditions and culture will make relationships between Russia and China closer.
